Evergreen Elementary closes doors

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

Evergreen Elementary School staff marked the end of an era on Wednesday, passing out honors to the last group of students to be educated at the school. The school district has other plans for the campus beginning this fall.

Ardeene Westvik served as principal at the school for about 10 years ending in 1993. She was one of the past principals to join current principal Marty Ofenham at ceremonies on the Westacre Road campus last week. After retiring from the district, Westvik later served eight years on the school board of Washington Unified School District.

"I retired from here," she told the News-Ledger. "It was a very different district then. We were in declining enrollment and were really financially strapped at that time. But we went from a school of about 400 students to about 600. It goes through cycles where population goes up or down, peole move away, kids graduate and move away – populations change."

Westvik added that the type of population also changed during her years at Evergreen.

"We went from a school with no non-English speakers to a school with a third of the children not speaking English. We had a very transient population. Then, we use to have a lot of children living in the motels."

She recalled the school and staff as "wonderful," adding that "it's kind of sad" to see Evergreen cease to exist.

In the fall, the school site will open as something else. Or, to be more accurate, as several different "something elses."

"We're going to temporarily house sixth and seventh graders from Westmore Oaks Elementary there, because there's not enough space for them on their campus," explained Sue Brothers, an associate superintendent for WUSD. Westmore Oaks is expected to expand from kindergarten-through-sixth to kindergarten-through-eighth grades with time.

"We're also going to put the West Sacramento Early College Preparation School there," she added regarding the Evergreen site. "That will be a charter school. The thought is that those kids will be taking college classes before they graduate high school, so they will be really well prepared for college. (The charter school) gives priority to kids with low income families, or kids whose families speak a language other than English – kids who have some barrier to go to college."

The charter school is going to get help from Sacramento City College and UC Davis. Local families were offered a chance to apply for space, with a 'lottery' to pick the students for the last eligible spots. Eventually, the charter will take its college-prep curriculum to some other district site – perhaps the current River City High School, after a new high school is completed in Southport.

One other program is planned for the "old" Evergreen campus.

"The other thing that will be there is, due to a grant from the state, a full-day preschool," said Brothers.

What happens to kids who would otherwise be going to Evergreen Elementary School next year? That depends on exactly where they live, answered Brothers.

"Most of them are going to Stonegate Elementary, which looks like it will open on time. It's being built behind Nugget (in Southport). The rest are going to Westmore Oaks."

School board member Matt Stegman (leaning over to shake hands) joined Evergreen principal Marty Ofenham and former principal Gretchen Mounier Wednesday in a ceremony congratulating the last crop of students to attend the school

The 18 prize winners in the 2007 "15 Days in May" photo contest were announced June 13 by the West Sacramento City Council. Stan Rommel, the second prize winner in the Residents Over 55 category, became the first four-time winner in the contest. He previously won in 2000, 2001 and 2002. The only other repeat winner in 2007 was Jill Braden, who has won two consecutive years in the Working in West Sacramento category. She works for the California Department of General Services, but is also an instructor with River City Dance Academy. First place winners received $500 cash; second place winners $250; and third place winners $100. The top photos will be featured on the city Web site, www.cityofwestsacramento.org.

Over 460 amateur photographers participated this year, the second highest total in the nine years of the contest. The city invited photographers to help celebrate West Sacramento's 20th year of cityhood, stimulating a 100-plus increase in contestants over last year's total.

Danil Kozen, 8½, won third prize in the Residents Under 18 photo with an adorable portrait of his sister, Yana. Danil becomes the youngest-ever winner in the contest. Another unsual close-up shows the full wingspan of a riverfront duck preparing to land. It earned a first prize for Wayne Carlisle in Residents 18-55.

River City High School went to "lockdown" security status late in the school day on Thursday, after a fight between two female students grew into an "unstable" situation involving a crowd of students looking on. Police responded, but no major incidents or injuries were reported.

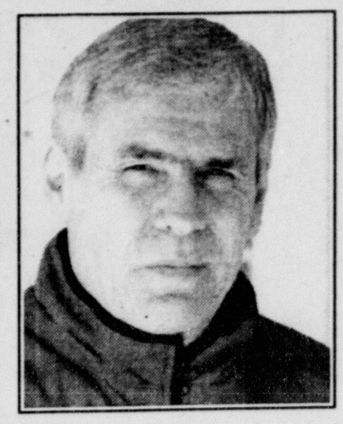
Remembering 'Jenny'

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

Note: 'Jenny' has died. For almost 15 years, she was the News-Ledger's unofficial mascot. She loved to hang out at the office and beg for attention as Steve and I tried to get our work done. She also imagined herself to be the newspaper's guard dog, but since she didn't have a mean bone in her body, the easiest way for a customer to get her to stop barking was to simply reach down and pet her.

And once you had petted Jenny, she was your friend for life. And since I got to pet her often, we became especially good buddies, and I always had to be prepared for her taking an unannounced flying leap into my lap. She had springs for legs and saw no reason whatsoever why I couldn't continue typing or answering the phone with her back legs dug into my thighs and her front paws on my computer keyboard.

Gentle souls, be they people or pets, enrich our lives in almost unimaginable ways, and the following column, which was written many years ago, will tell you a little bit more about Jenny, and why she is going to be so terribly missed.

Last week, a friend of mine (I'll call him Steve Marschke), decided to take a rare out-of-town vacation with his family and he suddenly found himself faced with the number one family vacation problem -- what to do with the dog.

"We're going to be gone four days and nights," explained Steve, "so it looks like we'll have to board Jenny (his 40-pound, Shar-Pei, black Labrador, hound dog mix) in the local kennel until we get back. She's never been through that experience before, so our veterinarian recommended that we put her in the kennel for a night before we leave to see how she does with it -- and we did that last night."

"So how did it go?" I asked.

"Not all that well, I'm afraid," said Steve. "Jenny is used to sleeping on the foot of my bed and she apparently didn't much like being in a lonely cage all by herself all night long. When I went to get her in the morning, she made it pretty clear to me that she didn't want me putting her through that again. I'm not sure what we're going to do now."

Being the sweetheart of a person I am, I decided to volunteer (not me, but my animal-loving daughter, Carrie) to doggie-sit Jenny while Steve and his family were on vacation.

"Jenny does know and like Carrie," said Steve. "Do you really think she would consider doing it? It would probably mess up her whole week

"Not a problem," I assured Steve. "Believe me, Carrie would much rather hang out with Jenny for a few days than some of the guys she's been dating lately."

After talking with my daughter, it was agreed that I would watch Jenny during the daylight hours of the two weekdays Steve and his family would be gone and she would take Jenny over to her downtown Sacramento apartment in the evenings and on the weekend.

"Did Steve leave you any food or toys or other stuff for Jenny?" my daughter asked me when she came over to my house after work last Thursday to pick up Jenny for the night.

"He sure did," I said with a big smile.

"What's so funny?" my daughter asked me with interest.

"Here," I said, handing my daughter a neatly typed full-page of detailed instructions on how to keep Jenny happy and well until Steve got back into town. "That copy is for you -- Steve gave me my own."

"What is it?" asked my daughter, beginning to read. And before I could answer, she was already laughing.

As my daughter continued reading, I consulted my favorite section of my copy of the instructions, which read: "Food -- one heaping scoop around 4-5 p.m. Can handle small amounts of veggie, fruit, meat, or other 'healthy' snacks. She is prone to getting an upset stomach (tail down, looks uncomfortable, perhaps eats grass compulsively, or licks dust from the floor). A couple of "Tums" or some milk or plain yogurt may help. She is also prone to being frightened by windstorms and strange noises -- will crawl under something and tremble."

"This is just like Steve," said my daughter, still smiling. "Do you remember how he and Jenny first met? She was a stray dog that had been hit by a car and she had a broken leg and was limping around in the dark and rain over by Kentucky Fried Chicken looking for scraps. He took her to a vet and spent about a thousand dollars of his own money to get her all fixed up. He's crazy about that dog and she's crazy about him. But did he actually leave you some Tums in case she gets an upset stomach?"

"He sure did," I said, returning my daughter's smile as I handed over a little plastic baggie of Tums to her.

"Well," said my daughter, "I guess I better take especially good care of Jenny."

"Just make sure you don't lose her," I pleaded, "because if you do, Steve is going to shoot both of us!"

Anyway, to make a long story short, Jenny's four days and nights away from Steve and the Marschke family were spent taking long, leisurely walks, watching television (she seemed to be especially interested in the war coverage channels), playing with my dog, 'Mikey,' and making new friends. I took her over to a River City High School tennis match where almost every member of the team ended up petting her, and Carrie took her to her favorite coffee shop, where workers and customers alike scratched her floppy ears and made her feel welcome. In the evenings, Jenny slept not at the foot of my daughter's bed, but right next to her face, and according to Carrie, "Jenny snores louder than any human being I've ever heard!"

"So, there were no problems at all?" I asked my daughter when Sunday afternoon rolled around and it was almost time to hand Jenny back over to the Marschke family.

"Well, she definitely didn't like the fireworks display that the River Cats shot off after one of their night baseball games," said my daughter.

"What did she do?"

"She immediately ran under a table and started trembling," said my daughter, "but it only took her a few minutes to calm down once I got her out from underneath the table, and she was happily snoring away an hour later."

"No upset stomachs?"

"Nope," said my daughter with a smile, "but I made sure I always kept the Tums nearby just in case."

West Sacramento Dolphin swim team member Austin Bouche broke a team record in the boys age 15-8 100-yard individual medley this weekend, with a time of 1:02.51.

The swim broke the prior Dolphins record held by Matt Bennett. It came as part of a meet against the Highlander Dolphins.

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

The San Antonio Spurs swept through Cleveland and their young line-up to claim their 4th NBA Championship in 9 years. The Spurs bored the nation to sleep with their style of play but who says winning has to be pretty. The TV ratings took a beating and so did King James after the Spurs corralled the Cavs young star, holding him to 35.6 percent shooting from the floor.

San Antonio powered their way through the playoffs winning 16 games while losing only 4 despite averaging 86.5 scoring in the championship series. The Cavs were lucky to beat Detroit giving Cleveland fans their first taste of the NBA Finals but a line-up that featured Sasha Pavloic, Larry Hughes and rookie Daniel Gibson in the backcourt to support LeBron was not enough.

Maybe the Cavs will make a trade with the Lakers to bring in Kobe Bryant to add some scoring punch to their line-up. They better hurry up because Kobe could change his mind about being traded at any moment! I think Kobe wants to become the NBA's version of Terrell Owens so stay tuned to NBA's newest soap opera.

Kings Korner

The NBA draft is scheduled for next Thursday and the Kings still haven't selected a head coach. The list is getting longer instead of shorter with the second interviews of Reggie Theus and Lakers assistant coach Brian Shaw. I still like Scott Brooks as the Kings next leader!

By Richard Novoa

The deadline has past for early entrants who hadn't hired an agent to withdraw and retain the NCAA eligibility. Cal Bears center DeVon Hardin was on the top of the Kings list but he has also decided to go back to college. The Kings have the 10th pick in the draft.

Diamond Notes

The San Francisco Giants (30-39), who are now 10 ½ games out of first, are playing horrible baseball. The Giants have lost five in row and 17 of their last 23 games. The Giants can't hit, field or pitch which is a deadly combination if you're a baseball team.

The G-men might be starting to panic because their GM Brian Sabean is talking trades. The major league trading deadline is July 31st so look for the Giants mangement to pull the trigger on some of their older players. The Giants have reached down to Fresno for some help to add some punch to their lifeless batting order that includes some older players like Rich Aurilia, Ryan Klesco, Mark Sweeney and Ray Durham.

Every one seems to be is sitting around watching Barry Bonds chase Hank Aaron's record. Bonds still needs 7 home runs to become West Sacramento is my first Choice!

Established Since: 1992 CMC

Do you ever wonder how businesses come up with their names? Many people think a business owner will sit down with a highly paid advertising or marketing guru and do tons of research to come up with the magic words. Yet many times it's a process so simple it leaves you wondering, "Why didn't I think of that?" That is the story of Choice Mortgage in West Sacramento. I'm Lori Heavin and I'm the owner of Choice Mortgage and have been for nearly a decade now. The owner that is, I've been Lori for a little longer than that.

So the story goes, when I decided to open my own mortgage business, the first thing I asked was, "What do I call this business?" A friend and I sat down and tossed around countless names and then she said, "Lori, your name will be Choice Mortgage." I said, "Really?" She replied, "Yes, and it's not just that you will be the customer's choice but it's your choice to serve the people of your home town." Next came the, "Why didn't I think of that?"

If you're looking at financing a new home or refinancing your current residence, doesn't it make sense to work with someone who knows your area as well if not better than you? Most of the people I work with, from office employees to appraisers have been with me the whole way. I was raised in West Sacramento and have spent half my 30 years in the loan business right here.

So, don't you find yourself saying, "Why didn't I think of that?" when it comes to financing the most important transaction of your life. I'm Lori Heavin and Choice Mortgage is right here in West Sacramento, right where we belong.

Wal-Mart comes to town

The new Walmart store at 755 River Point Court, near IKEA, officially threw open its doors last Wednesday after a ribbon-cutting grand opening ceremony.

Store manager David Pressly welcomed the crowd and helped Andy Wallace, president of the West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, use a pair of giant scissors to cut the ribbon at the store's entrance. Then visitors were invited to start shopping.

The store is a "superstore," featuring groceries as well as durable goods.

A Home Depot and a number of smaller retailers are expected to join the big retailers at the development in coming months and years.

the all-time home run leader. If Bonds breaks the record before the trade deadline he could end up in the American League as a DH.

The A's (38-31) are 6 games behind the first place Angels but at least Oakland has a winning record and is actually playing pretty good ball considering all the injuries to their starting line-up. The starting pitching has be good if you don't count the slacking the St. Louis Cardinals put their staff last weekend.

The good news is Milton Bradley is serving his rehabilitation assignment with the River Cats and should return to the A's lineup soon but Mike Piazza return has been delayed another couple weeks to let his right shoulder heal.

The Giants will be home this weekend to play a three game series against New York Yankees while Oakland travels to the Big Apple to face the New York Mets.

Closer to home the River Cats (39-31) are also having some problems of their own which is understandable with most of their productive players being called up to Oakland. The Gatos manager, Tony DeFrancesco, has been able to juggle around a line-up that has only six players left who started the season in West Sacramento. The River Cats have fallen out of first place but not to worry because help is on the way from Double-A.

The River Cats are at home against Tacoma this week until they hit the road on Saturday to play in Salt Lake City.

The CONCACAF Gold Cup continues this week with the United States advancing to the semi-finals against Canada on Thursday in Chicago. The U.S. beat Panama 2-1 last Saturday and Canada defeated Guatemala 3-0 to advance while tournament favorite Mexico survived another scare beating Costa Rica 1-0 in overtime.

Unheralded Guadeloupe, a small island country off the coast of Puerto Rico, made two early goals stand up for a surprising 2-1 victory over Honduras in the quarterfinals on Sunday in front of 70,092 fans at Reliant Stadium in Houston. Honduras was stunned because they had beat Mexico 2-1 earlier in the tournament.

Guadeloupe will face Mexico on Thursday in Chicago in the semifinals. The defending champion United States will play Canada in the other semifinal. Thursday's semifinal between Mexico and Guadeloupe will air on TeleFutura (ch. 64) at 7 pm following the USA-Canada game which is set to kick off at 4 p.m. on Univision (ch. 19) will show the Gold Cup final on Sunday at noon.

Enjoy your day - see ya next week!

• Do you suffer from ephebophobia? It's not likely; in today's youth-obsessed culture, it's not a common affliction. Ephebophobia is a fear of young people or adolescents.

• Summer is upon us, which means it's time for the quintessentially American tradition of the road trip. (That is, if you can afford to buy gas for the family station wagon.) Well, if you're heading to Illinois in August, be sure to stop off in Champaign-Urbana during the weekend of the Insect Film Fear Festival, an event the organizers describe as "a celebration of giant rubber bugs, low production budgets, and an underhanded attempt to educate non-entomologists about the joys of insects." A must-see, to be sure.

Southport schoolkids visit the Bay–

Over 80 students from Southport Elementary School participated in a field trip to the Headlands Institute on June 12, in a trip whose $13,000 cost was picked up by PG&E.

The fourth-graders visited the Marin County facility to learn about science, and were exposed to the regionls flora and fauna and to the sciences of marine biology and other activities. They looked a pond and gathered and looked at invertebrates under a microscope. They overnighted in dorm-style rooms near Rodeo Beach.

Staying safe in the summer heat

From Beth Gabor
Yolo County Public Information Officer

As temperatures are expected to rise above the 100 degree mark this week for the first time this year, Yolo County officials are reminding all county residents to take measures to protect themselves accordingly. Especially vulnerable populations include: people over 65 years of age, children under 4 years of age, people who work outdoors, those who are overweight and those who are ill or may be on certain medications that can affect their ability to handle fluids.

"Over exposure to heat is serious and can be deadly," said Yolo County Health Officer Bette Hinton, M.D. "Protect yourself and look out for your vulnerable neighbors, people living alone or those in need of assistance."

Residents who do not have adequate air conditioning may experience heat-related problems. If your home does not have adequate air conditioning, find a relative or other location in the community, such as a public building, shopping center, restaurant or movie theater, where air conditioning is available. Even a few hours spent in air conditioning can help your body stay cooler if you need to go back into the heat.

Residents are urged to protect themselves during hot weather by taking the following precautions:

- Drink extra non-alcoholic fluids, especially water.
- Stay cool indoors in air-conditioned facilities, especially during the hottest part of the day.
- Pace yourself and avoid heavy exertion in the heat.
- Wear lightweight, loose fitting clothing and sunscreen.
- Avoid hot foods and heavy meals.
- If you become lightheaded, feel confused or experience any other symptoms of heat exhaustion, get to a cool area until you feel better.
- Never leave a person or animal in a parked car. Temperatures inside a vehicle can rise to dangerous levels in minutes.
- Don't forget pets that also need extra water and shade.

Vote 'Yes' on flood measure

By Sandra Vargas

SANDRA VARGAS

West Sacramento is growing up and growing out of its image as a sleepy bedroom community. It has become one of the region's most dynamic cities in its own right.

We've grown to a population of over 40,000. That figure will reach close to 80,000 by 2020. We've made impressive investments in a brighter future: A new fire station, a new high school, two new elementary schools, an expanded Jefferson Boulevard, and plans for a new south river road bridge and potential additional Sacramento River crossing.

New retail facilities anchored by Ikea, Nugget and Target are now open, offering the opportunity for West Sacramento residents to spend more time shopping in their own city.

Our city is surrounded by levees and we can't risk the safety of these investments by not preparing our levees for unforeseen rises in water levels around us.

Make no mistake, West Sacramento's levees are strong. But in order to make them strong enough to stand up to a storm of historic strength, we need to make improvements now.

Since 1987, the West Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency has made improvements to the West Sacramento levees that protect our city. But the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has developed new safety criteria and our levees need to be upgraded in order to meet those standards.

In response, the West Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency has prepared a plan to upgrade levees to the new standards in order to protect lives and property in the event of a Katrina-like force of nature.

In May, property owners were mailed information on the plan and ballots asking for approval of a new assessment to fund approximately 10% of the citywide project. The Flood Protection Plan will improve and repair all the levees surrounding West Sacramento. The deadline to submit your ballot is July 10th..

By passing the Flood Protection Plan we will not only protect lives and property, we will also qualify for state and federal matching funds that will pay for the majority of the fixes. By investing in improvements to approximately 42 miles of levees that surround and protect the city we can bring home more of our tax dollars from Sacramento and Washington D.C.

If we fail to act, our city could be designated as a flood zone, which will limit economic growth and force mandatory and costly flood insurance on property owners.

The most typical and serious structural deficiencies the plan will address are:

Erosion – the breakdown of levee structures can be caused by fast-moving flows, wave and recreational use of the levees.

Under-seepage – when rivers reach flood stage, pressure builds up in layers of sand and gravel underground, forcing water under the levees and out of the ground, compromising the levee foundation and leading to failure.

Through-seepage – seepage through the existing levee that can erode the interior of the levee.

The fixes to these potential problems are essential to protect the people of West Sacramento, our homes, schools and businesses.

Supporters of the West Sacramento Flood Protection plan are not limited to one party or organization. We are unified in a common belief that flood protections will make West Sacramento a better place to work, live and raise a family.

Supporters include West Sacramento's Firefighters, Police Officers, West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, Mayor Christopher Cabaldon, Supervisor Mike McGowan and all of our elected officials.

With these flood protection improvements, West Sacramento will have some of the strongest levee systems in the nation. To view maps of the affected levees and the improvements and upgrades in the new Flood Protection Plan, visit www.westsacfloodprotection.com. Check your mailboxes for an official ballot, vote Yes, and return them as soon as you can. West Sacramento depends on it.

Principal Stuart MacKay reports being struck from behind a few times by other students when he tried to keep the two combatants apart.

"Apparently, there had been some name-calling between the two girls involved," MacKay said. "It escalated. Instead of coming to administration to resolve it, they handled it otherwise. I was actually right by the incident, and was making sure one of the girls was walking away from the other. When I turned away, the other girl walked towards the one I was with."

The two tried to fight right there in the campus quad area. Other students gathered.

"I managed to prevent them from hitting each other, which meant they were hitting me," said MacKay. "There was a huge crowd and it was difficult to disburse. I understand from afterwards that there were a few people who got in some licks at me from the back. I have a couple of bumps and bruises."

Staff succeeded in getting the students disbursed, and went to "lockdown," requiring all students to be inside a classroom with a teacher and behind a locked door. Instruction didn't occur for the last two of the school's seven periods. MacKay called the district's transportation department to get buses to the campus.

"It was really efficiently done, with all the staff helping," he said. "The biggest problem was students with cell phones. Kids were calling home to say something is going on. One teacher overheard a kid who said there had been a shooting on campus."

West Sacramento police came to the school to help keep things orderly. The buses left the campus at about the usual time of day, said MacKay, so the school didn't have to worry about sending kids home unexpectedly early.

The two girls "have been disciplined" and "are not on campus," said MacKay.

As for the others, who may have assaulted him as he tried to be peacemaker?

"There's no concrete evidence."

To help prevent panic as information or misinformation circulated about the lockdown, MacKay said he left a message on the school's phone system for callers to learn what was going on.

"If we have a situation like that again, I am going to have a person manning that phone constantly to answer questions."

MacKay emphasized that the 1,600-student campus has seen more peace and order in recent years than before.

"It's a shame something like that happened, because we've done a lot of work on campus and have cleaned up the incidents that used to happen. As an administrator of several years, I know that things happen. I am going to work hard get this place cleaned up."

CRITIC'S CORNER
By D.N.A Smith

"Pirates of the Caribbean: At World's End"

Running time: 168 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

The third (and hopefully final) installment of the Pirates of the Caribbean series suffers from the misapprehension that "more is better." Sometimes it isn't. And in the case of "At World's End," more is too much: Too much plot, too much exposition, too much Keira Knightly and Orlando Bloom (Zzzzzzz), and at nearly three hours in length, too much movie.

What "Pirates" doesn't have enough of is Jack Sparrow. Let's be real here: Johnny Depp carried the first movie. It was his portrayal of the swishy, swashbuckling savant Jack Sparrow that made the first movie the hit that it was. It wasn't the love story. It wasn't the special effects. It was Depp. Depp. Depp. ... Period.

In this film, there aren't enough scenes of Depp doing what he does best, chewing up the scenery as the scheming, bumbling cad we adored from the first film.

Instead, we get a convoluted plot concerning the alliance between the East India Company and Davy Jones and the search for nine pieces of eight (yes, you read that right) and a pirate congress and plots within plots and people sitting around yelling "Arrrr!" and talking about what they're supposed to be doing — instead of just doing it.

But no. For a three-hour pirate movie, it's a crime that we have to wait nearly two hours before we see a monkey get shoved into a cannon. A pirate movie should have pirate stuff in it. Not a bunch of talking. And certainly no boring love story — especially when the two people in love are portrayed by two of the most dull, emotionless actors on the planet.

Keira Knightly, who's looking more and more like an anorexic catfish every day, thinks that projecting emotion is simply a matter of sucking in one's cheeks. The more she sucks, the more emotion she's supposedly emoting. Orlando Bloom reads every line as if he'd just had a chemical lobotomy performed. Needless to say, Suck-Face & Durrrrrr pretty much ruined most of the movie for me.

I can't recommend "At World's End." It had the potential to be a Great White Shark, but instead, it's just a blowfish.

The Assault on Reason
By Al Gore
(The Penguin Press, $25.95)
Review by Cindy Elavsky

There has always been an element of fear to the politician's message. We are all familiar with political scare tactics as a means to an end when it comes to the campaign trail.

However, since 9/11, fear has been the main tactic the current administration has been using to keep American citizens in line and under wraps. This era of "politics of fear" has transcended all forms of reason, and reason should be the main basis for the operation of our country. The Founding Fathers had hoped that reasoned debate would govern both our and our representatives' motives in trying to decide what is best for the country.

Now, in this age of disinformation and calculated misrepresentation, where people are being inundated with more information than ever, it's difficult to cut through the swill and get to the heart of the matter. Long past are the days where people made informed decisions based on reading books, pamphlets and newspapers.

These days, Americans get their information from sources who have decided what is important, how it should be interpreted and how it should make you feel. It is this lack of involvement that Al Gore wants Americans to take back. It is time that Americans search for facts and come to their own reasonable conclusions. If one is able to wade through what passes for news these days — a starlet's fatal overdose, an heiress' arrest, which celebrity is dating whom — then maybe we can draw our own conclusions.

We need to get back to governing with a reasonable mind. Mr. Gore, in his convincing eloquence and biting candor, zeroes in on the main problem and maps out a way that we can gain our reason back — for the sake of ourselves and our country.

NOTICE OF RECIRCULATION OF REVISIONS TO DRAFT ENVIRONMENTAL IMPACT REPORT FOR RIVER PARK GENERAL PLAN AMENDMENT AND REZONING PROJECT (SCH #2005062027)

Notice is hereby given that the City of West Sacramento is releasing for public review revisions to portions of Sections 3.3, 3.8, 3.14, and Chapter 5 of the Draft Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for the following project:

PROJECT DESCRIPTION: The River Park General Plan Amendment and Rezoning Project involves the creation of a residential village on 494.4 acres of land in the Southport area's Southeast Village. The area is currently planned for residential development ranging from low- to high-densities, neighborhood commercial, WRC, elementary school, open space and parkland uses. The Project would amend the current land use designations to support the development of approximately 2,788 residential units (including rural residential, low-, medium-, and high-density offerings), an approximately 40-acre regional park, and community open space areas. The Project would represent an increase of approximately 900 residential units compare to what was considered by the Southport Framework Plan. The Project also includes changes to the General Plan and the Zoning Map (West Sacramento Municipal code, title 17) to generally increase residential densities and add recreational opportunities.

PROJECT LOCATION: The project area is generally located in the Southport area of West Sacramento within incorporated City limits. It is generally bounded to the east and south by the Sacramento River and South River Road, to the north by Davis Road and existing residences, and to the west by the former Yolo Shortline Railroad corridor. The site is currently being used for agricultural production and grazing.

Comments are to be limited to those pertaining to the revisions to Sections 3.3, 3.8, 3.14, and Chapter 5 of the Draft EIR, per Subsection 15088.5(f)(2) of the CEQA Guidelines, which provides, in pertinent part, that, "[w]hen the EIR is revised only in part and the lead agency is recirculating only the revised chapters or portions of the EIR, the lead agency may request that reviewers limit their comments to the revised chapters or portions of the recirculated EIR. The lead agency need only respond to (i) comments received during the initial circulation period that relate to chapters or portions of the document that were not revised and recirculated, and (ii) comments received during the recirculation period that relate to the chapters or portions of the earlier EIR that were revised and recirculated." NEAR TRAGEDY COST ABOUT $7,000 LOSS LAST SATURDAY

On one of its Saturday evening pleasure excursions on the river the Pankost Boat and Fish Co. lost about $7,000 last Saturday when the tug "Scout" took fire from an overheated engine and became a total loss.

Two hundred persons danced on an attached barge but were uninjured because of the quick work of the crew under command of Earl Pankost.

He cut the tow lines and ran the "Scout" on a sandbar, where it burned to the water's edge.

The men jumped into the river and swam to safety before the gasoline tanks exploded.

The launch started out at 8 o'clock from the M street landing with the barge on which were the dancers. The party was on its way down the river. At a point opposite the foot of U street, fire broke out on the launch shortly before 9 o'clock. The cause is attributed to the heating of the engine in pulling the barge over a sandbar.

The orchestra on the barge remembered the Titanic's band and struck up a lively air when the flames, bursting from the launch created considerable excitement on the barge. All quieted down and the members of the party went on with the dance. Later another tug was sent out to take the barge in tow.

The fire department of Sacramento was called to the river and the police department sent a detail of officers to render help should it become necessary.

CAPITAL STOCK OF VIRDEN COMPANY INCREASED FROM FIVE TO TEN MILLION DOLLARS

CONSTRUCTION OF PLANT WILL BE STARTED IN THE FALL AS SOON AS THE HARVEST CROPS ARE LAID AWAY BY THE FARMERS

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Virden Packing Co. held in Sacramento yesterday it was decided to increase the capitalization from five million dollars to ten million dollars.

As soon as the approval of the Commissioner of Corporations, E. C. Bellows, can be gained for this increase the new stock will be sold, but the old stockholders will have the privilege of first call for the stock.

The sale of the original five million dollar stock was almost completed but as many of the buyers were farmers and unable to make payments until their harvest was completed the decision above was arrived at.

There is no doubt, however, that the Commissioner of Corporations will grant the necessary permit for the additional five million dollars.

Speaking to The Inedpendent, Charles E. Virden said, concerning this:

"The first estimates have been greatly enlarged concerning both the building and the amount required to transact business on such a large scale. More money is necessary now to do business than a year ago, but the plans of the corporation have not been altered except in the way of enlargement."

Knowing that the banks are refusing loans for all purposes except to farmers the building of the Virden plant in West Sacramento will be delayed until fall. This will not reduce the size of the plant in any particular, but on the contrary may mean a much bigger factory.

The stockholders' meeting was unanimous in sanctioning the raise in capitalization and many subscribers for stock asked for more of the new issue when it becomes available.

The plant site at West Sacramento has been staked following a general survey and the plans of the building have been drawn and are ready for bids when the specifications can be finished.

When permission is secured from the Commissioner of Corporations a campaign of selling will be started by the fiscal agents, Whisner and Knowles.

They expect little trouble in disposing of the additional five million dollars worth of stock.

It is expected by the officers of the company that construction of the plant will be started about the end of October or the early part of November.

Now here's a tip! by Jo Ann Derson

- If you are on a budget, check your yellow pages for local specialty schools. You could find yourself on the receiving end of a great deal for dentistry, veterinary care, massages and haircuts, among other things. Check the schools' Web pages or call to inquire about any programs they have.
- "The baby-oil bandage trick goes back generations in my family. Whenever it's time to take off a Band-Aid, we use a baby-oil-soaked cotton ball to lubricate the whole area. It comes off in a snap." — A.T. in Washington
- "My husband constantly forgets to empty the last load of clothes from the dryer. I don't mind, because he does most of the laundry in the first place. I just throw a damp towel in the dryer with the wrinkly clothes, and they straighten up quickly." — E.V. in Michigan
- Shop after 6 p.m. the evening before a sale is advertised to begin. According to the National Retail Federation, many retailers program the registers the night before, so the sale price may already come up in the register, even if the store has not signed the selling floor yet. Ask the associate in advance for any possible upcoming sales, especially on big-ticket items.
- "Teens (at least mine) tend to get bored with articles of clothing before the item is worn out. I found a great store called Plato's Closet that has in-style teen and early 20s clothes for a great resale price. I swear, my girls get twice as much clothes for less money. Now if I could just get them to wear less than three outfits a day, I might save money on laundry, too!" — J.J. in Florida

BOOK NEWS & NOTES

Former* Fat Girl Tells All

(NAPS)—A witty, upbeat and highly motivating new book supports women's efforts to trim away what prevents them from living fulfilling lives.

In her book, "Secrets of a Former Fat Girl" (Hudson Street Press), Lisa Delaney reveals how she created her own seven secrets of success—which resulted in a 70-pound weight loss that she's maintained for two decades.

Twenty years ago, at 5 foot 4 and weighing 185 pounds, Delaney was disappointed by diets that never worked, her dull job and lack of love life.

Fortunately, a late-night realization over a half-gallon of mint chocolate chip ice cream convinced her that transforming into a former fat girl—in body and spirit—was the key to having a life she loved.

Shaping up your body is as much about how you feel on the inside as how you look on the outside, says this inspiring memoir.

Show your support. Help us spread the word for DVT Awareness.

Behind the scenes, Today's Host Meredith Vieira shows her support for DVT Awareness!

DVT occurs when a blood clot forms in a deep vein, usually in the lower limbs. It affects up to two million Americans annually. If the clot breaks loose, it can travel to the lungs, causing a pulmonary embolism. Approximately 300,000 people die each year from PE, the majority of which resulted from a DVT. The best way to reduce your risk of DVT is to talk to your doctor about the risk factors, especially if you have cancer or certain heart or respiratory diseases, or prolonged immobility.
